If Catterall wins, it'll be his first win since losing to Arnold Barboza Jr., but if Eubank wins, it will extend his undefeated record. It's also a chance for Eubank to establish his own legacy while upholding the Eubank family name as the nephew of former WBO middleweight champ Chris Eubank Sr.

Jack Catterall faces Harlem Eubank, live from AO Arena in Manchester, England on Saturday, July 5. The pair square off in an all-British bout at welterweight.

Former title challenger Catterall (30-2, 13 KOs) of Chorley, Lancashire returns after his split decision defeat against Arnold Barboza Jr. in February. Unbeaten Eubank (21-0, 9 KOs) of Brighton, Sussex aims for his second win of the year, following a 10th-round TKO against Tyrone McKenna. The contest is scheduled for 12 rounds, with the IBF Intercontinental and WBA International titles on the line.

In the co-feature, former champion Joe Cordina (17-1, 9 KOs) of Wales takes on Jaret Gonzalez Quiroz (17-1, 13 KOs) of Mexico. The bout is scheduled for 12 rounds, with the WBO "Global" lightweight belt at stake.

On the Catterall vs Eubank undercard, Leo Atang makes his pro debut in a four-round heavyweight bout against Milen Paunov (7-15, 5 KOs) of Bulgaria. Aqib Fiaz (13-1, 2 KOs) and Alex Murphy (13-1) meet in a 10-rounder at super featherweight. Plus, Pat Brown (2-0, 2 KOs) and Lewis Oakford (6-2) clash in an eight-rounder at cruiserweight.
